Diversity 多様性

Our university is home to students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of backgrounds, who learn and work together.
Student Support provides consultation and support on matters related to diversity.
To help make our university a place where everyone can feel safe and comfortable, why not start by learning about the many forms of diversity?
Together, let us create an environment where we respect and value one another.

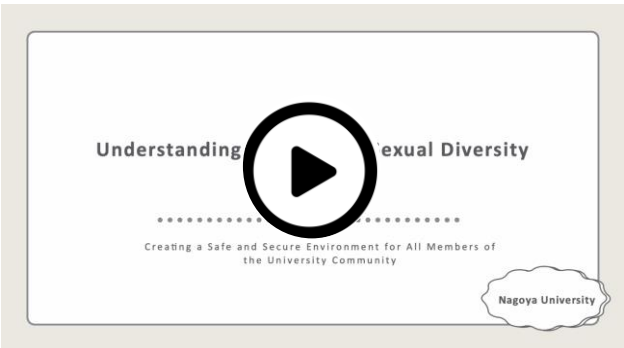

Diversity in Abilities

Nagoya University is committed to creating an environment where everyone, regardless of disability, can be themselves, make the most of their abilities, and learn and thrive with confidence. As part of this commitment, the University provides academic support, including reasonable accommodations.

Sexual and Gender Diversity

Each of us has our own SOGI (Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity).
We have prepared a video introducing basic concepts related to gender and sexual diversity, as well as practical steps you can take today to help create a safe and inclusive environment.

For information on specific policies and procedures, including the use of preferred names, please refer to "Nagoya University Missions and Guidelines for LGBT+-inclusive Practices"

Missions and Guidelines

If you have concerns or questions about your SOGI (Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity), would like some space to explore these aspects of yourself, or need information about specific university procedures and applications, please feel free to contact the Student Counseling Center.

International Diversity

Nagoya University is home to many international students who study alongside students from Japan, offering numerous opportunities to experience international diversity right here on campus. We encourage you to explore different languages, cultures, and regions, nurture your curiosity, and broaden your horizons.
If you are interested in international exchange, study abroad, or overseas programs, please visit the website of the Global Multi-Campus Institute. Consultation services are also available for international students regarding academic life and psychological well-being.
